

Education Scholarships for U.S. Army Special Forces Families

The mission of the Green Beret Foundation (GBF) is to provide for all generations of the U.S. Army Special Forces Regiment and its families with emergency, immediate, and ongoing support. GBF works very closely with other nonprofits to ensure that it is spreading the umbrella of support as wide as possible. GBF also works with other organizations to ensure it is not duplicating services and utilizing the donor dollars as effectively and efficiently as possible. To this point, GBF has prepared the following primer on education scholarships available to U.S. Army Special Forces soldiers, spouses, and children. This primer will be updated periodically to reflect the most up to date information so bookmark this document for future reference. De Oppresso Liber.

Scholarships for Green Berets

Veterans Affairs GI Bill

If you qualify for the maximum benefit, we'll cover the full cost of public, in-state tuition and fees. We cap the rates for private and foreign schools, and update those rates each year.

- Money for housing (if you're in school more than half time). We'll base your monthly housing allowance on the cost of living where your school is located.
- Money for books and supplies. You can receive up to the maximum stipend per school year.
- Money to help you move from a rural area to go to school. You may qualify for a one-time payment if you live in a county with 6 or fewer people per square mile and you're either moving at least 500 miles to go to school or have no other option but to fly by plane to get to your school.

*This resource can be transferred to eligible family members.
